

Bessie's Story

Bessie Giannopoulos, Export Import Bank of the U.S.

My cause is global health. I have witnessed firsthand how the effects of heart disease can weigh on the individual and their family. My father, husband, father-in-law, and many more have suffered with or died from heart disease. I believe funding through the CFC makes it possible for doctors, scientists, universities, and drug companies to continue their life-saving research. Funding also makes it possible for medical services and health education to be provided in our communities. The CFC assembles thousands of charities and reputable organizations, making it easy and convenient for people to contribute to many worthy causes.

“My cause is global health. I have witnessed firsthand how the effects of heart disease can weigh on the individual and their family. Funding through the CFC makes it possible for doctors, scientists, universities, and drug companies to continue their life-saving research.”

